GERMAN FLIERS SMASH RECORD FOR ENDURANCE

Johann Risticz and Cornelius Ezerard Lower Mark of Chamberlin and Acosta

IN AIR 52 HOURS

Two Aviators, Planning Trip to America in Same Plane Acclaimed

Dessau Germany Aug 5—Smashing the world record for endurance flights previously held by Clarence Chamberlin and Bert Acosta the two German fliers Johann Risticz and Cornelius Ezerard came to earth here at the end of 52 hours and 22 minutes of continuous flight and their next act on landing was to lock arms and drink a toast to each other—in milk

The two aviators covered approximately 4,788 kilometers or some 300 kilometers further than the distance between Dessau and New York Had the men been flying on a straight line they might have flown from Dessau to Pittsburgh

Germany Waits Flights

The flight was hailed with great glee all over Germany as it was a preliminary test for a flight across the Atlantic in the same Junkers plane Europe which the two fliers used to break the record

The track record of 4 000 kilometers held by the Lzechslmen Drouma and Landis also was broken

When the fliers landed the crowds sang Deutschland Uber Alles and then there were hochs for the fliers and for Professor Junkers

The deed is German The fame belongs to the nation next to us Thank God Germany still has brave men said Professor Junkers as he congratulated the fliers

The plane did not carry all the gasoline load of which it is capable

Engineers of the Junkers company estimate that the plane can fly 60 hours on a transatlantic flight

5,000 Greet Fliers

The engine was reported to be in perfect condition

A crowd of 5 000 persons greeted the fliers when they came down and lifted them shoulder high and escorted them out of the hut in an automobile

Miss Bertha Junkers eldest daughter of the head of the Junkers firm hung a wreath about the necks of the fliers while Mrs Ezerard kissed her husband who also was in the air to show he was not tired

Professor Junkers designer of the plane was moved to tears when he and Lomercinhle sons as German mothers grasping the hands of both fliers

Numerous state and municipal officials witnessed the landing

SAY COOLIDGE MAY CALL ANOTHER NAVAL PARLEY

Hugh Gibson, Chief American Delegate, Pays Farewell Call on British

Geneva Aug 5—The rules of the tripartite naval disarmament conference were exceedingly cold today There was no aftermath of discussion There was merely a group of tired and disappointed delegates preparing for departure

Hugh Gibson chief American delegate paid a formal farewell call on those members of the British delegation who remained here Gibson will himself take a few days rest

The delegates were unanimous in declaring that while the Anglo American deadlock on cruiser strength and gun power had wrecked the meeting all parted in a spirit of good will

Speeches delivered by the American British and Japanese delegates in the final plenary session at the Hotel les Bergues were surprisingly moderate in tone the anticipated fireworks failed to develop

It is understood that President Coolidge may issue invitations to a conference in Washington before the end of his term in office In that event the same powers who were asked to participate in the present meeting would be invited, namely, Engla I Japan France and Italy.

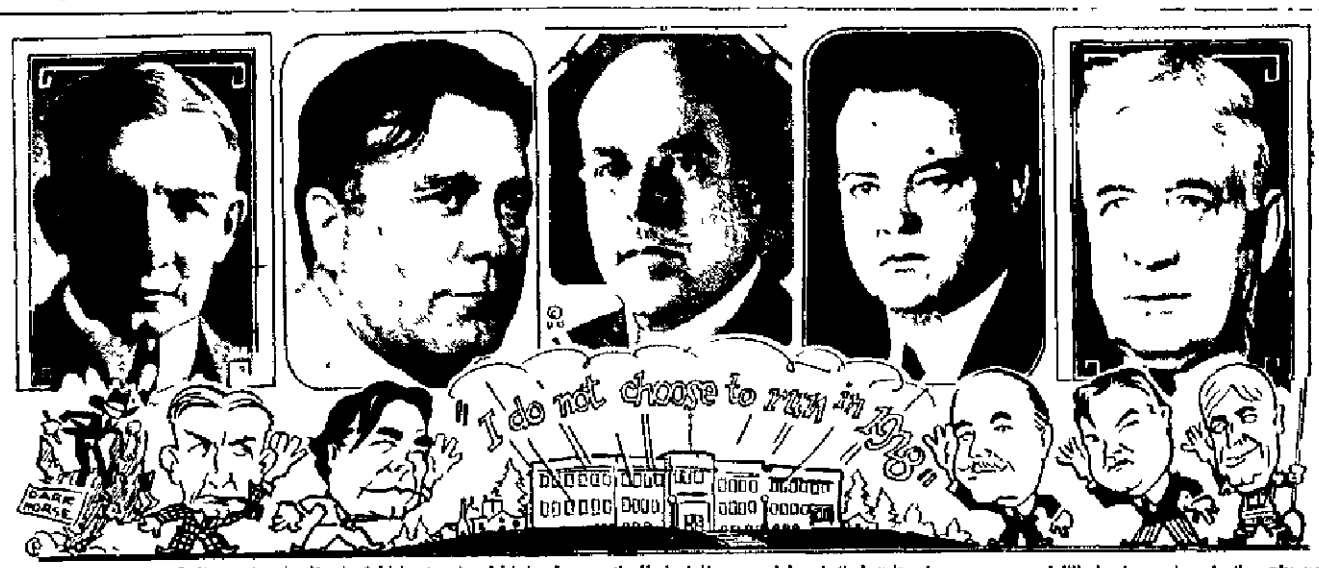
MA'AM'S PLANE G TO LOS ANGELES

They're Off!—In Full Field for G. O. P. Presidential Nomination



Vice President Charles G Dawes Senator Borah of Idaho Speaker Nicholas Longworth Herbert Hoover and Frank O Lowden former governor of Illinois shown above in the order named are looked upon as among the strongest of the candidates in the Republican presidential nomination race The dramatic announcement of President Coolidge, I do not choose to run in 1928, has brought forth an army of possibilities any one of which might prove the choice of the Republican party

Black Hills Press Meeting Offers First Opportunity For Coolidge To Explain

Requests for Literal Translation of Famous 12 Words on Tongues of Newspapermen; Executive Expected To Let Announcement "Speak for Itself"

Rapid City S D Aug 5—President Coolidge will have an opportunity today to explain his much discussed statement of three days ago that he did not "choose" to run for reelection in 1928

Shortly before noon (Mountain time) he was to receive the representatives of the press for the first time since Thursday when the startling announcement was made That he will be deluged with questions concerning the full meaning of the terse 12 words statement is certain His plans for the future and every other conceivable angle will be inquired about at length

The executive may answer those questions but the majority of those around the summer White House are believe otherwise The consensus is that he will admonish the newspapermen to let the statement speak for itself and thus permit those who are in a quandry as to his motive to continue to worry

Denied, But Belief

Mr Coolidge his friends here hold has definitely read himself out of the race Nevertheless he doesn't mind being regarded as a sweet man full of deep motives and of the politicians close to make a mystery of the announcement he is not adverse for the sake of a little fun to keep the central figure of a deep laid magnificent political plot—for the present at least

He deliberately selected the word "choose" to make his announcement so her use he wanted to convey the impression that he was declining something he knew was his for the asking.

His associates here say he is getting quite a kick out of the mystery some of the Republican leaders are making of his phraseology

Another phase of the political situation created by the Coolidge announce

MORE TIME IS GRANTED IN PHONE RATE DISPUTE

Contested Schedule To Continue Indefinitely Under Commission Ruling

Controversy over telephone rates in Marion County which has been in progress more than a year is to be prolonged as the result of action taken by the state utilities commission at Columbus today

The commission announced that the time granted the telephone company for collecting under the contested rate has been extended and no definite date was fixed for termination of the extension period

The Ohio Associated Telephone Co which now owns the local telephone service as the result of purchases negotiated several months ago will continue collecting under the present rate schedule pending final action of the commission

Bond Continued

The bond filed by the company to guarantee refunds to its subscribers should the rates finally be cancelled will continue in force

The commission explained that the time extension was granted in order that a tentative valuation of $1 379 597 placed on the local telephone property by state engineers may be considered further

In the event that the present tentative valuation is found improper changes will be made by the commission stated

AVENUES OF ESCAPE FOR PAIR MAY BE CLOSED

Four Months' Lapse Since Court Denied Exceptions May Help Block Efforts

Boston Aug 5 While legal conclusions in the case of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti were in full swing, and the possibility loomed that all court avenues looking to a stay of execution had been closed

Four months have elapsed since the supreme court denied exceptions and made an order of the congress of Fifth appeal for a review must be filed with in three months

The question arose as to the likelihood of the state courts granting a motion for a new trial in the case if it were discovered a pardon the other by the Governor Fuller says

While the legal phases of the case were under discussion the Boston Herald stated yesterday was added Wanted a William Henry dental surgeon that had received several threats of death and violence to it and that its records will be the chief piece of evidence signal for the execution by means of the electricity in the death house

Governor Fuller were working hard long and diligent inquiry [illegible] at the Death Watch [illegible] the cases was closely guarded

Youth Leaps to Safety as Auto, Stalled on Tracks, Is Demolished by Train

Marion Miers ,19, Has Narrow Escape from Death at Railway Crossing on Jefferson-st; Jumps from Car Moment Before Crash

Lady luck and presence of mind were with Marion Miers 19 year old son of Mr and Mrs George Miers 1 Church-st and were the factors which saved him from serious injury or possible death when his auto was hit by an eastbound passenger train at the Jefferson-st crossing at 6 30 o'clock yesterday afternoon

Failing to see the approaching train until he had driven upon the tracks young Miers swerved his machine and leaped clear of the car just before the crash

Miers who is employed in the office of the Marion Steam Shovel Co was attempting to get on the tracks from the south side when the accident occurred He had pulled his car upon the Big Four tracks to await the passing of a train on the line before he noticed a train coming in the west on the Big Four

Pauline Stalled

He would have had still more time to clear his car off the tracks had his engine not stalled Instead of risking his life by attempting to start the motor again he jumped from the machine while the speeding passenger train from Lima struck it Miers says that his car was pushed by the force of the impact for two feet cars standing on a side track near the crossing

The car which Miers was driving a Ford coupe was completely demolished and hardly a piece of the machine could be found that was not damaged Pieces of the car could be found along the track 500 feet from the scene of the accident

Excited witnesses of the crash did not want to see if the youth was injured but rolled the [illegible] Curtis Co ambulance to the scene of the accident

The home was not damaged

CHILDREN SEE MOTHER, UNABLE TO GIVE HELP

Mrs Gertude Carr Succumbs To Injuries Late This Afternoon

DIES AT CITY HOSPITAL

Explosion Occurs as She Mixes Oil and Gasoline To Start Range Fire

BULLETIN

Mrs Carr died suddenly at 4 30 o'clock this afternoon

While her three small children stood by crying and not unable to give her any assistance Mrs Gertrude Carr of was probably fatally burned at her home on the Upper Sandusky pike just south of the Bucyrus-st intersection, this morning

Mrs Carr is in City Hospital and late this afternoon doctors for her severe burns were supported by attendants Her face had most every body with the exception of her feet and lower limbs were severely burned

Mixture Causes Blast

The injuries were the result of the explosion of gasoline and coal oil which it is said Mrs Carr was mixing preparatory to starting a fire in an open range

Merle Carr her husband a farmer employed on a farm near their home, was absent and only the three children were in the home with Mrs Carr when the explosion occurred

The children are a girl four years old and two boys one three years old and the other 18 months old

The three lots stood by without knowing what to do until the mothers screams sent the little girl running to a neighboring farm saying Come quick Mommie a burning up!"

Mrs Mildred Manley living on an adjoining farm rushed back to the Carr house with the little daughter and extinguished the flames and summoned medical aid for Mrs Carr who then was taken to City Hospital in the C E Curtis & Son ambulance

SAYS SHOOTING RESULT OF DOMESTIC TROUBLE

Peace Maintained in Athens County by Two Score Special Officers

Columbus Aug 5—The shooting of Peter Mers Dick Run Mine owner Thursday attributed to his son in law James McManaway was the result of a purely domestic quarrel, Lee Hall, president of District No 6 (Ohio) United Mine Workers reported here today, following a telephone communication from Otal Daugherty at Nelsonville

According to Daugherty, president of the sub district in which the mine is located It is generally accepted that the quarrel between Mers non union operator and McManaway union sympathizer resulted when Mers in a drunken fit attempted to beat his 12 year old son, Richard, and when McManaway attempted to notify police of the incident

Peace is being maintained in Athens County, by regular sheriff's deputies augmented by about two score special officers

BUCYRUS LUMBER MILL WILL SELL AT AUCTION

Judgment of $10,308 33 Cause of Placing Old Business on Block

Bucyrus Aug 6—The final chapter in the history of the old Rector Mill will be started on the steps of the court house here Saturday Sept 5 when the buildings will be sold to satisfy a judgment of $10 308 33 against the Bucyrus Lumber Co in favor of the Peoples Saving & Loan Co The Bucyrus Building & Loan Co also has a claim Most of the chattels in the form of machinery and equipment have already been sold

The mill has been in operation for over two decades In fact many years ago it was reputed as one of the best mills in the country, products being distributed all over the world In late years, the mill changed hands several times until it became the property of the present company But in its many periods and sharp competition in mill work and lumber the mill ceased to be a paying proposition and so it declared by gradual stages to the present liquidation

The property must be sold at not less than two thirds of the appraised value The property includes outlots 120 122 123 124 and part of outlot 125 and the buildings thereon

Shovel Shops Cinch Industrial League Pennant

SPORT SAUCE

BY EDDIE SCHOENLEB

THE big battle of the Commercial League was decided when the Marion Steam Shovel nine took the visiting Eagles down the Shovel Office an what will go down as the deciding game for the year.

As it now stands it gives the Shovels two games on the Eagles if the Eagles were to win the rest of their games with a team to match that which faced the Shovelers on Wednesday all of the Shovelers games would count for the title.

The win for the Shovels has weakened the Eagles' hold on second place as they now have lost three out of the eight games played.

We predict that the Eagles will win the rest of their games and that a play off will be necessary to decide the championship. Little World series stuff. The Shovels defeated the Eagles in the first round 3 to 0 but since that time the Eagles have come back strong and have won from the Shovels twice. Of course it must also be admitted that the Eagles have not been playing as well lately but they have worked up better against strong teams than has the Shovel during the second round.

The Shovels are on top. They are warned not to attempt to stop. They have everything including the league lead and probably the championship to lose. The Eagles on the other hand already are out of first place and have everything, including the league lead and pennant to win.

With Clark on the mound for the Shovels and Caudle Gruber doing the pitching for the Eagles there's going to be plenty of excitement on the variety of the Shovel athletic grounds tonight. Clark is one of the best pitchers in the city but so is Gruber and in case Gruber doesn't take the mound and the club duelers are up to Roy Rice we still have a clash between two of the best hurlers in the city.

The game tonight promises to be a Little World Series in itself—unless something goes radically wrong with one of the teams.

EPWORTH SENIORS high hopes of taking second place in the first Sunday School league after getting away to a bad start went sky high Wednesday night when the First Presbyterians gave the dope bucket a terrific wallop and defeated Earl Smart's crew 9 to 6.

But Smart's nine still has an excellent chance of tieing for second place position before the next two weeks are gone. And best of all, it has an opportunity to get revenge for the defeat in the next and last game of the season. Presbyterians and Epworth will meet next Thursday night. Will the seniors get revenge or another trimming? We won't even venture a guess. According to records you don't know.

BARTSCH HURLS NO HIT GAME AGAINST ERIE

Tap & Die Battles Roundhouse to Scorelers Tie in Eighth

MARION Steam Shovel Shops last night defeated the Erie Shops in the industrial league baseball game that was a pitchers' battle from start to finish, Bartsch holding the Erie Shops to one hit and no runs, darkness halting the game at the end of the eighth inning.

It was a stinging pitchers' battle from start to finish, Bartsch allowing only one hit, a scratch single by Conrad, but Clark was touched for seven hits, one more than Bartsch, but bunched them to better advantage. Marion scored in the first inning on a walk, a sacrifice and a single by Bartsch, and added another in the fifth on a walk, a stolen base and a single by Bartsch.

Erie's only hit was a single by Conrad in the second inning. Only two Erie batters reached first base after that, Bartsch fanning seven batters in succession.

Bartsch pitched his usual steady game, allowing only seven hits and striking out 14 batters. Clark struck out 11 batters, but was more wild than Bartsch, issuing five passes to first base.

Helen Has Her Own Little World War; Stars of Four Nations Seek Net Title

THE big World War of tennis is on. And Helen Wills queen of the racquet is on the defensive on all fronts.

Gangs of four nations seem to the hounds that follow the trail of the Berkeley Beauty this summer are putting a concentrated effort to overthrow the Fair Helen.

In the European war the young face of Miss Wills are in evidence in movies and rotogravure. Even Time in her own Hallwick of California there is the young menace of the courts Miss Jacobs who aspires to the throne there as Queen Helen II.

Helen Jacobs

The stands 5 feet 6½ Miss Jacobs has already lost one match with Miss Wills this summer and suffered a feat at the hands of the press. But Miss Jacobs hasn't been defeated by Miss Wills in a long shot. Three national girls' championships equally rounding into a star of the best water.

Two summers have crowned the pride now known as Lindbergh the Comet of the queendom of Helen.

First to Betty Nuthall child the Lady champion of Great Britain who despite her 5 ft 5 wants is a member of the British Wightman cup team and all of the Best Set the isles have had for a long time in women's tennis circles.

Then in the locks of Betty came Jefferson Ivey Bouman the tennis star of Holland to invade these shores. Jefferson (or Mrs.) Bouman immediately on her arrival here entered in the Seabright, N. J. international tourney beating many American stars including Miss Jacobs.

Spain In Race

And over in golden Spain is a young senorita with soft eyes but steel muscles smarting still under the defeat handed her at Wimbledon this summer by Miss Wills. European tennis followers picked Senorita Lili d'Alvarez to defeat the Berkeley Blaze at Wimbledon, and when she didn't they expressed surprise. Be sure the senorita wants revenge with true Spanish determination.

New York Yankees Slump; Pirates and Cubs Triumph

NEW YORK, Aug 5—With the return of the New York Yankees to the top rung in the ladder race in the American League the Cubs and Pirates are going strong in the National. The Cubs won the fifth straight game yesterday but the Bucs are not to be outdone in the battle for the National League pennant and are the Yanks. Pirates have dropped but one of their last ten games.

Heathcote Hornsby was on the sidelines with a broken finger but the Rajah Grand Chancellor Long of baseball is confident of the team.

The Cubs made 29 hits in defeating the Phillies 9 to 5 and Pitcher Jim Malone got credit for the victory as the Cubs won their fifth straight game.

Pitcher Jim Malone's comeback has not only put the Cubs in the pennant race but has given the Pirates and Reds a battle for the National League pennant. Malone pitched a three hit game yesterday defeating the Phillies 9 to 5 and getting a home run and two singles.

Robins Beat Cards

William Wilson Clark made his first start on the mound for Brooklyn Tuesday and helped him trim the Cardinals 4 to 2. The Robins have still to McGraw who used to pitch for them.

Pitcher Jess Barnes of the Robins has gone to Helen Sam to beat his record against brother Clark into the Brooklyn pitching fold. Another brother Virgil is with the Giants the Barnes family will have three patches in the National League.

The Giants advanced to within 2½ games of the leaders in the National League race yesterday by defeating the Boston Braves 5 to 4 in 10 innings. Hubbell was the winning pitcher.

Saints Lose Again

Owen Carroll of the Dodgers was king of the mound yesterday as he held the Yankees to four hits and shut out the Yanks 3 to 0. Harry Heilmann's home run in the fifth with Ruth on the sacks was the only run the Yankees made. The Yanks are due for a slump as pitchers have been hitting the ball hard of late.

The Senators took over the Yankees

Man Who Was "Fired" from First Job and Years Later Became Railroad President Visits in Marion This Week

DON'T be down-hearted no matter what you happen to lose your job through the rather unpleasant process of being "fired."

This is the advice which would be handed out by John J. Bernet, president of the Erie Railroad Co., should he be asked for his opinion. And any views which Mr. Bernet might express would be based upon personal experience.

He was fired from his first job as a telegrapher likely one of the greatest disappointments he would have had never been handed him. He would not now be head of a railroad corporation.

More than ordinary local interest centers in the story as the result of Bernet's visit to Marion this week. While [illegible] railroading years ago.

Here on Several Occasions

It was one of Bernet's visits that he made to Marion since he became president of the Erie more than a year ago, the two being one of the most important points on the company's lines.

The story of how Bernet was ousted from his first place of employment, resulting him on the road which eventually led to a place of eminence in the railway world was told recently by a friend who was associated with him in railroading years ago.

Bernet, in the years he made [illegible] was employed by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad as a telegrapher and operator at Colfax, Iowa.

It is his first position. He needs up for a night shift, during Bernet was expected to [illegible] but on one occasion he overslept and failed to report for duty on time. He was discharged.

Improves His Time

Bernet would find no employment at the time but he had an opportunity to obtain work

1. Money spent with him stays at home
2. He helps you pay our taxes
3. He helps support our churches
4. He helps support our lodges
5. He helps support all community enterprise
6. He puts his money in our banks and keeps it there Most foreign merchants check it out first in fact

Money you spend with an out of town merchant or chain store never comes back to Marion

7. The more business our local merchants have the more local employment for our people
8. He is a home builder and is interested in your town
9. He is a home owner and pays taxes at home

story of Boyhood Adventures

BY JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

We got enough to fill our shirts and she asked Did I hurt you? But then she got to work up on her self shaw and he was still crying and the best thing I could do was to get him in the wagon and crawl under the tarpaulin and run through the ticket and out the rear of the tent before Jim could get back. I didn't catch him but we didn't catch him but no matter how much he cries to Sunday school he always will be a little sneak

NEW OWNERS TO OPEN NEW YORK RESTAURANT

S. Main-st Business Purchased by James Rizzo and Clyde Hill

Announcement was made today of the purchase of the New York Restaurant on S. Main-st by James Rizzo local barber and Clyde Hill of Buckeye Lake. The business was formerly operated by Lou Rosen.

According to the new owners of the restaurant who signed a one year lease on the building yesterday formal opening of the establishment will be held Aug. 12 and the restaurant will be open for business Aug. 13.

The place will specialize in Italian spaghetti and will be prepared under the direction of Mrs. James Rizzo. Name of the restaurant will be changed according to Rizzo but the new name has not yet been selected.

Painters and carpenters are now remodeling the inside of the restaurant and a modern equipment is being installed. Hill will be manager and will be assisted by Mrs. Rizzo.

The New York restaurant went into the hands of receivers several weeks ago while under the management of Tom Bosco.

FIVE TIRES ARE STOLEN FROM CARS AT DANCE

Police Believe Youths Responsible for Thefts at Rainbow Gardens

Thieves made a quiet and successful raid with five tires from machines parked at Rainbow Gardens, during a dance last night.

The theft of the tires, secured by removing them when cars were parked at the intermission of the dance about 11:30 o'clock, Deputy Sheriff George W. Deal responded to the call sent in by the dance hall management but did not obtain any clews to the thefts.

It is believed by police that the robbers was the work of young boys who made their get away in a machine, after carrying the tires to their car in Harford Park.

KIDNEY TROUBLE BROUGHT PAINS OF RHEUMATISM

"Konjola Gave Me New Health in General," Says Marion Citizen.

"Konjola gave me new health in general, and I am feeling better than I have in two years," said Mr. J. F. Fatzlar, well known Marion citizen, living at 295

MR. J. F. FATZLAR

Linden Place, this city, while talking a few days ago with The Konjola Man, who is at the Stump Pharmacy, 121 South Main Street, Marion, daily explaining this remarkable new Konjola medicine to large crowds.

"My trouble started about two years ago with pains in my back," said Mr. Fatzlar. "I was told I had kidney trouble and kept on trying all kinds of medicine, but never could find anything to help me. I was getting worse and finally developed rheumatism. I could hardly bend my knees, and the pains across my hips made it impossible for me to walk at all for several days at a time. Owing to weak kidneys, I had to get out of bed 4 or 5 times a night and felt so weak and sore in the morning that it took all my strength to dress myself.

"Now, all of these things have changed. Konjola seemed to drive the poisons from my system which were causing those aches and pains the past two years. My kidneys are in good condition now, and I never suffer with dizziness. I can walk as good as anyone and my back never hurts me. The stiffness and swelling in my knees is gone. I never have to get up at nights.

"After all this relief, I am convinced that Konjola was just the medicine I had been needing for a long time, and I am glad to endorse it."

The Konjola Man is at the Stump Pharmacy, (Stump and Sams), 121 South Main Street, Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.—Adv.

REAL ESTATE MEN STUDYING LICENSE LAW

Principles of New Measure Provided Local Dealers by State Board

Local realtors are busy studying the new real estate law which was passed at the last session of the state legislature and which provides for the licensing of all who buy and sell real estate. The law will go into effect Aug 9 and realtors who neglect to make application for a license this month are liable to fine.

To avoid the ability of a city man the law each realtor before filling out the application blank which he must file with the State Board of Real Estate Examiners must read the principles of the law which are supplied in pamphlet form.

Thirty two questions covering every phase of his business life are to be answered by each applicant. He must also have sworn statements of two resident freeholders of the county vouching for his honesty and good reputation. A fee of $40 a year is required for a license.

COMMISSIONERS HOLD QUQUA DITCH HEARING

Largest Drainage Project Planned Here in 10 Years Under Consideration

Final hearing on the Ququa ditch the largest ditch project to be undertaken in Marion County for 50 years was held by the county commissioners this morning.

The ditch extends from the north section of the city of Marion to Waldo and empties into the Whetstone River there. The system to be improved extends several miles south of the city. The estimated cost of the improvement has been set at $[illegible] by the commissioners.

If the hearing is concluded today dates will be set by the commissioners for letting contracts for the work and also to make arrangements for the sale of bonds.

Several claims for damages amounting to more than $1,000 were discussed at the hearing today.

KIWANIS CLUB MAKES PLANS FOR PARK MEET

More Than 400 Visiting Members Expected To Attend Inter-City Picnic

Committee chairmen were appointed and tentative plans made by members of the Kiwanis Club at their luncheon at Hotel Harding yesterday for the inter city meeting of the clubs of the 33rd district to be held at Crystal Lake Park Aug 18.

It is expected that between 400 and 500 members of the club from the 14 cities in the district and from nearby cities which are not in the district will be present at the meeting which will be in the nature of a picnic meeting. A feature of the affair will be free rides on each of the ride concessions at the park with the exception of the roller coaster for all children of Kiwanians.

Will Visit Clubs

In an effort to stimulate interest in the meeting members of the local club yesterday were assigned to visit the clubs of the district and others on their luncheon days next week and extend an invitation to attend the picnic here. Attractive announcements of the meeting have also been printed and will be mailed to the clubs in the district.

Club officers including Governor Smith of Dayton and Lieutenant Governor Black of Mansfield have been scheduled as speakers at the meeting which will be held in the pavilion at the park.

An invitation to the members of clubs of the second district was extended by representatives of the local club who attended the inter city meeting of the district held at Orchard Island Wednesday night.

Governor Fuller Who Handed Down Sacco-Vanzetti Verdict Self-Made Man

BOSTON, Aug. 5—After seven years of controversy and demonstrations in many parts of the world, final decision in the case of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, two immigrants convicted of murder, came before a man who, himself, had struggled in his youth.

Gov. Alvan Tufts Fuller of Massachusetts, native born, a man of great wealth now, cultivated and keen of mind was left in poverty at 14 by the death of his father.

Quitting school, he went to work for a rubber boot concern in Boston. Some one had to support the mother. The boy Fuller, therefore, gave up, temporarily, his ambitions to achieve an education and took a $7.50 a week job in a 12-hour day factory.

Heard Elsewhere

Contemporaries record that young Fuller worked hard and faithfully at his job but that his heart was elsewhere. The bicycle fever was beginning to burn up the land, and Fuller was among the most heated of the Boston adherents of the new craze. In the evenings, after his day's task was over, he repaired and sold bicycles, using the woodshed of his mother's cottage as his "factory."

He sold bicycles, which he assembled himself, in the local races, and won a few prizes. At the end of one year's activity he found that he had sold 700 bicycles. Right then he decided that there was more money in making bicycles than there was in turning out rubber shoes. He persuaded an uncle who had a little money to enter partnership with him. By 1897 their plant was turning out 500 bicycles a year, and the foundations of the Fuller fortune were laid.

Bicycles were at the peak of their popularity between 1897 and 1907, but before he had completed the first decade of his manufacturing experience Fuller's agile mind was looping ahead of his current success to grasp the greater opportunity of the future.

Automobiles Next

The automobile was beginning to be known. Fuller looked into the new invention and visioned at least a part of its revolutionary possibilities. He took up automobiles. Today he owns the controlling interest in an automobile business which turns over $1,000,000 a year, and which has served as the basis for a personal fortune which is estimated at $50,000,000.

The Progressive Republican movement was certain to attract the attention of a man so essentially progressive in his personal affairs. In 1912 he turned to public matters, supporting the Roosevelt policies in that year and 1913, and in 1914 he went to the Massachusetts house of representatives as a Progressive. He was a Roosevelt delegate to the Chicago convention in 1916, and he 1917 and reached executive office. He served for four years. He is now in his third term as governor of his native state.

His independence of thought, and his personal honesty in public life, has been made evidenced during his political career. He startled the oldtime politicians in 1911 when he turned over to the city of Malden the amount paid him for his term in the house of representatives, with his mileage. This he did to support his conviction that a man of independent means should not accept fees for public service.

Refused His Salaries

He shocked these same politicians when he returned to the general funds of the commonwealth the sum of $55, 000 paid him during six years as lieutenant governor, and governor.

His breadth of mind and freedom from prejudices is evidenced in the fact that, although himself a Baptist, he chose for his wife a devout Catholic to his intimate life for has been unquestionably happy. The couple have four children.

A rabbit's foot is efficient if it brings plenty of well-paid hard work.

"The best thing for a BAD LUNG is a good head"

Quoted from Bulletin of the Ohio State Dept. of Health

TUBERCULOSIS is something to be conquered—not yielded to. If your lung is affected, keep your head. You can get well right here in Ohio, close to friends and relatives, without the need for heroic and expensive trips to other climates. There is at your service, down in the pure air and bright sunshine of the south-eastern hills, a wonderful sanatorium devoted entirely to the treatment of lung diseases; the oldest private institution of its kind in the state.

"I'm glad I followed the advice of Mary Garden"

Margery Bailey is telling her companion, Ed Wagner, as he offers her a Lucky Strike between tennis matches at Forest Hills.

© Pictorial Bureau, Chicago, Ill.

Marvelous Mary Garden writes:

"My teachers, Trabello and Richard Bartelemey, all impressed upon me the solemn warning that I must always treat my throat as a delicate instrument. Yet every artist is under constant strain. Sometimes we get real relaxation in smoking a cigarette. I prefer Lucky Strikes—which both protects the throat and gives real enjoyment."

Mary Garden

You, too, will find that Lucky Strikes are mild and mellow—the finest cigarettes you ever smoked, made of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"It's toasted"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation - No Cough.

Deporting 1,000 Aliens a Month.

When it was announced about this time last year that the government was deporting aliens at the rate of 1,000 a month, many may have been inclined to lean to the view that the showing reported was due to exceptional activity along that line at the time, but as month after month has passed and the deportations have averaged practically the same, it must be conceded that the government is following a consistent policy in sending back to their native lands those who came here illegally or came here legally for a limited time and have overstayed their time limits.

In commenting on the fact that the deportations of May and June of the present year were slightly beyond the monthly average, the president of the League for American Citizenship made the surprising statement that forty-three per cent of all the aliens who presented themselves for citizenship at the bureau of naturalization between January and June of this year and who were found to have come into this country illegally came from Great Britain. This is especially surprising for the reason that the British quota for immigrants under the present immigration law is second in size only to that of Germany. It would naturally be taken that the great percentage of aliens who enter illegally would come from the countries with the smallest quotas. The trend, however, seems to be the other way, save in the case of Germany, which, with the largest quota, supplied only eleven per cent of the illegal entrants. Russia with the smallest quota supplied but four per cent, and Italy but eight per cent, with the other countries ranging from the percentage of Russia to that of Germany.

However, commendable as the work of the government has been in deporting aliens illegally in this country, we believe the work would strike a still more popular cord were the government to devote special effort to the deportation of aliens illegally here who have manifested criminal activities since their arrival or associated themselves with the criminally inclined. Our domain is wide, but we have little room for those who illegally enter and none at all for the criminal element of other lands or for those who affiliate with the criminal element already here which plots and conspires against our government and our institutions. Against such should the supreme effort of the federal authorities be directed.

Do Animals Reason?

There is a wonderfully interesting article by Director Reid Blair, of the New York Zoological park, in the current issue of the Forum magazine on the intelligence of animals and especially that of an Indian elephant which in one day was taught to pick up pennies from the floor, raise the lid of a small box high above its head, drop the pennies into it, and reclose them by ringing a bell. This done, the elephant looked for his reward, and if it did not materialize in the form of peanuts or biscuits, he would ring the bell till it did appear.

The story of this particular elephant we give, in part, in the words of the author.

"It was soon noticeable that although 'Gunda' was an accomplished beggar and teller, his banking methods were somewhat peculiar. While the deposits were heavy, there was a corresponding heavy shortage at times. Upon inspecting the books, it was found that 'Gunda' dropped the penny into the box, but afterwards very deftly picked it out again and put it in his mouth. When the keeper was away from the stall, 'Gunda' put the cent on the floor until a visitor came along, when he went through the form of picking it up again and ringing the bell.

"To prevent this fraud, small staples were driven in the bottom of the 'banker's' box, so that the penny fell between them. 'Gunda,' however, simply stretched the tip at the end of his trunk and lifted the penny out as before. It was only by using long nails in place of the staples that we could prevent the trick. But 'Gunda' was equal to the occasion and developed another method of acquiring extra tidbits. One morning while standing near-by, 'Gunda's' keeper heard a penny drop into the bank, then another, until he counted four. Stepping quickly to the front, he saw the wise elephant reaching with his trunk to the flat top of the partition wall where he had made a secret 'deposit.' When detected, 'Gunda' slyly walked away, and the keeper, on examination, found nine other pennies on the wall."

So often we have been told that, while animals possess instincts, they have no reasoning powers. All of us have seen statements along this line by writers who professed to know, who should have known better than to have made such statements. They have told us that animals did certain things by instinct and could be taught to do other things—such tricks, by way of illustration, as his keeper taught Gunda—to pick up coins, place them in the box and ring the bell—but that they could not reason things out by themselves. Yet no one taught Gunda to lift the pennies out of the box, put the pennies in his mouth, and, awaiting the arrival of a visitor, pick the coin up from the floor, where he had placed it when his keeper wasn't looking and ring the bell again. Nor was Gunda taught to work the little hold-out game on his "bank."

Here's a safe proposition: No one who has owned and cared for a fine dog or horse will ever question the possession of reasoning powers by the higher classes of animals. None of them is so intelligent as the elephant, but dogs and horses and many other animals think and reason things out.

Investigation has developed that the Favorite, originally built as a single-decker, was made somewhat topheavy by the construction of her upper deck. All other things even, two decks will carry more people than one. And twenty-seven lives were sacrificed.

Now, were some of us true aristocrats to follow the lead of that New York woman and say we are never going to die, it wouldn't be so far aside the mark. In this age of motors so few of us get the chance.

It is mighty considerate of "Uncle Andy" Mellon to buy that place over in Monaco. It's going to be mighty handy for Americans who go broke in Monte Carlo to have a man of means right next door in times of emergency.

A new record was established by the Panama canal last month, 509 vessels having passed through the waterway as compared with the previous record of 506 transits in December, 1923, and March, 1920. The July tolls were $2,215,515.90. Constructed as a war measure, the Panama canal may yet develop into something of a commercial enterprise.

It is said that Senator Jim Watson, of Indiana, has deserted Dawes and may himself be a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. Out in Indiana the big run of the politicians generally have been pretty thoroughly committed to that old first law of nature.

"Boston Billy" Monaghan, who robbed the Jesse Livermore home in New York state of $100,000 worth of jewels, for which he drew a fifty-year prison sentence, and who figured in many other Long Island robberies in which jewels worth tens of thousands were stolen, told the officials at Sing Sing that all he had to show for his career of crime was a ten-dollar bill. Does crime pay? We should say that it does not.

One of the most disturbing phases of that renunciation is that it will probably start a controversy between Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler and Senator Thomas J. Walsh over the honor of having convinced Mr. Coolidge of the "folly" of being a candidate for a "third" term.

Vagrant Verse.

WHEN HELEN COMES.

Where Helen comes, as falls the dew
Where Helen comes peace cometh too!
From out the golden, western lands,
White lilies blooming in her hands,
A light of heaven in her face,
She passeth on with noiseless grace
Before her fly the shades of life—
The darkling, wheeling bats of strife—
They flee her very garment's sun,
And greater fear the soul of her:
For both she feel the power to slay—
The sesame of living clay!
Wherever her morning footsteps pass
The daisies nod upon the grass
Soft whispers full of praises sweet
Her virginal presence rise to greet
And if she go through deserts bare
The angels of the heart are there
Th' fail to greet to praise the e—
So fair as that where Helen dwells!
Where Helen comes, as falls the dew
Where Helen comes peace cometh too!

—John Jerome Comer.

SAYING IT WITH FLOWERS.

Babies Suffer from Heat.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

It isn't natural for young babies to perspire. Of course an infant may perspire so much about the head that the pillow is wet for the space of several inches. But this should not be the case.

The average child does not perspire until the age of one year or more. It is a pretty safe rule that no baby perspires before becoming four months old. The younger child may perspire a lot about the forehead.

One of the important functions of the skin is the elimination of perspiration. Through this method some of the body wastes are removed.

The skin of the entire body possesses certain tiny glands. One variety is called the "sweat gland," or, because of its shape, the "coil gland." The number of such glands is enormous. Scientists claim that everybody possesses a couple of millions of them.

In hot weather it is not unusual for an infant to develop a disturbance of the coil glands. Within a very short time they appear to become inflamed. Where each gland is located in the skin appears a red, swollen spot.

Of course, it is not babies alone who have this trouble. Anybody, no matter what his age, may have "prickly heat."

This is the name given heat rash. The doctors call it "miliaria," and sometimes "millet seed rash." This is a pretty good name for it because there are hundreds of swellings in the skin, each about the size of a millet seed.

Every one of these red swellings is a burning, smarting, itching spot. There is no wonder that the baby is restless, fretful and unhappy when its delicate skin is so afflicted.

If the skin is scratched and rubbed, some of these little swellings may become infected and really sore. It is common, however, for the eruption to disappear in a few days.

It is to be expected that hot weather would bring on the trouble. Called upon to supply the skin with moisture, blood is sent to the coil glands to cause them to operate. As a result of irritation, or of hot weather, there will be more than enough blood, and, in consequence, the glands become inflamed.

Fat persons or others, as well as little babies, are likely to suffer from prickly heat in hot weather. Under-nourished persons, particularly those who sweat from "weakness" are another class likely to suffer from heat rash.

It is necessary to keep the skin perfectly clean, avoiding strong and irritating soaps. The clothing should be reduced in weight. It is particularly important to select very light and thin underwear. Babies can't stand thick, tough and irritating clothing.

Astringent lotions of alcohol and water, diluted alcohol or cologne will promote the comfort. They do much to relieve distress and to hasten recovery.

A harmless dusting powder will be helpful. Baby will be much more comfortable if it is used.

Where there is great itching and every scap irritates, try oatmeal or bran water instead of soap. This may stop the itching at once.

A splendid remedy for itching of the skin from any cause is hyposulphite of soda. Add a tablespoonful of this to a small cup of water and mop it on the skin. It will help a lot.

Editorial Comment.

AIMS IN EDUCATION

Throughout the land there are many young people who have graduated from high school and are contemplating their next step in life. Many of them have in mind the continuation of study in college or university. They have been advised by their teachers and friends to go on with their studies, their parents are anxious to have them continue in school and dream of the time when they will complete the work of the higher institutions of learning with the same high credits that have marked the high school course. This is all well and in keeping with the high ideals of the American people if with the knowledge gained and the longing for more knowledge there has been instilled into the mind the fact that the use of knowledge is to make the individual of service to his fellow man. Any student who attends a higher institution of learning without the idea of better service to his fellow associates is an idler who is occupying a place intended for a more worthy citizen. Many colleges and universities are recognizing this fact and are weeding out those who attend for the prestige rather than the serviceable knowledge which the diplomas from such institutions carry with them.—Mapleton Enterprise.

LINDBERGH'S CLEVELAND SPEECH.

Characteristically, Colonel Lindbergh's little speech in Cleveland last night pleased both the friends of peace and the friends of preparedness. Let us build airports and transport mail and express by plane, and travel through the air by this wonderful new method that enables us to go from Cleveland to any place in the United States in a single day. We do not want war and do not anticipate it, but if war should come this development of our peacetime air force would find us prepared.

This is the best kind of preparedness. Daily tasks that test men's mettle, train their minds and bodies and fit them for any emergency can offend no one, but, on the contrary, delight us by all the inspiration of their example and their building up of a finer race. Colonel Lindbergh weighed his words well: after hearing him speak we respect and admire him more than ever.—Youngstown Vindicator, August 2.

From Our Readers.

RECKLESS DRIVING.

Editor Star—Each night in the paper we find some dope on how to drive an automobile. We don't know who is responsible for this information—we almost said "applesauce"—but the thought occurs to us that it might just as well be out of the paper as not too many seem to pay any attention to it in actual driving practice.

The writer lives in the southwest part of town and as a suggestion to the local officials charged with administering the law, we invite them out on Bellefontaine avenue for instance. We believe that if the police department would patrol Bellefontaine avenue and arrest only those drivers operating with one headlight, with cutouts open, with bright headlights, no tail light and those exceeding the speed limit—whatever that may be—and if after these drivers are hailed into court, Judge Martin will apply the necessary "cure," then we can probably restore the bonded indebtedness of the entire city within a period of not to exceed sixty days. If some other of the speedways in town could be patrolled at the same time, we make the assertion that perhaps the national debt could be entirely retired in not to exceed six months.

We have in mind one particularly obstreperous fellow who traverses Bellefontaine avenue about midnight each night on a motorcycle with at least twelve cylinders and each cylinder must have at least two cutouts on it. We propose that we mobilize the National guard and station them on Bellefontaine avenue with fixed bayonets and both barrels loaded and see if this jaybird can't be caught. No foolin', this bird takes you right out of bed. The draught created when he goes by resembles a small tornado and on second thought it might be well to have an armored tank supporting the local police as we would dislike to see any of the soldier boys swept away, and we are sure they would have to maintain a discreet distance from the fellow or they would surely be lost in the gale.

Speaking of speed limits, we question whether it is fifteen miles an hour or on up to seventy-five. Seriously, there are a lot of children on the sidewalks these summer evenings and it is not always possible to keep children on the sidewalk. Some motorists apparently have no thought for the safety of anything or anybody, and only within the past two or three weeks we saw an automobile, in attempting to get out of the way of another one, go up over the curb and almost on the sidewalk, losing a fender, scraping a wheel, etc.

Undoubtedly the one or ones responsible for the editorial on it in the Star every evening on the rules and regulations for autoists are sincere, but if we are not guilty of the situation, little, if any, attention is paid to it. Here we have no quarrel with the enforcement of the law. There may be too few officers on the streets strategically placed—we make no claim of knowing how to run a body of law enforcement officers. Do you suppose there ought to be a law?

Yours truly, J. R. Biggert.

High Enough Not To Obstruct Traffic.

A church has a life just over Canadian railways At what altitude?—Dallas News.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

"The ruins of himself now worn away
With age, yet still majestic in decay."

So sang the ancient poet, Homer. The body may wear away, but not character. The old John Quincy Adams, walking down a Boston street, was asked how he fared.

"I am fine," answered Mr. Adams, "but the old house in which I live is almost worn out."

It has been said in these columns before: "Man is a soul; he merely has a body."

To take a long look at life, one must see it as a continuous, never-ending process. It changes but goes on. We are not always here—but always somewhere. Wordsworth said: "There is one great society alone on earth: The noble Living and the noble Dead."

How true it is that "great thoughts, like great deeds, needs no trumpet!"

Little use of telling our high motives and our unselfish purposes and acts. We shall rise only so high as our thoughts. If our thoughts are high, our actions will quickly show them forth. And if our thoughts are low our actions will not ring true.

If you know men and women between the ages of eighty and 100 you will be interested in talking to them about their rules for health and long life. You will find there is no agreement among them. One man, living to be 100, says he has had a drink of whisky every day for twenty years, and smoked most of the time. The next man, living to be 100, lays his good health and long life to the fact that he never drank liquor or smoked. There is a woman now past eighty, known to the writer, who has called herself an invalid for forty or fifty years. She attributes her long life to the fact that her invalidism has made her take unusually good care of herself.

The best plan is to find your own common sense rule—and live by it.

So-called inspirational writers are fond of telling us that we can have anything we want if we are willing to pay the price—the price of devotion and sacrifice. It is all true—but it is a good idea to be sure that what we are after is worth the price.—Copyright, 1927.

Views of Those in Public Eye.

REED SMOOT.

Reed Smoot was born at Salt Lake City, Utah, January 10, 1862. He has served in the United States senate since 1903, is chairman of the senate finance committee, and a member of the World war foreign debt commission. Senator Smoot is identified with banking and industrial corporations in Salt Lake City. He is a graduate of Brigham Young Academy, Provo, Utah.

Senator Smoot is opposing the retention of the inheritance tax. He expresses his stand on the subject with decided force. He says:

"I am for repeal of the inheritance tax and will be opposed to the retention of the tax when the matter is brought up again in the senate. You can not get away from the fact that the inheritance tax is a tax on property, which is not the function of the federal tax powers of congress. Such a tax is a state matter. It is to be resorted to by the federal government only as an emergency measure, as a war tax, and it is no longer justified as a federal proposition.

"As a permanent measure, it trenches on the sphere which should be reserved to the states. It is peculiarly a form of taxation which should be within the province of the several states to such extent as they, upon their own volition and choice, desire to exercise it.

"It should be resorted to, I repeat, by the federal government only in emergency, and the emergency does not now exist. It should be repealed. The senate finance committee recommended its repeal at the first session of the last congress, in its report on the internal revenue bill of 1926—Senate report No. 52, sixty-ninth congress, first session, on house bill No. 1, of that session—and the senate adopted the same view."

Today's Events.

Friday, August 5, 1927.

Poland today celebrated the centenary of the birth of Maryan Langiewicz, one of the outstanding figures in her struggle for independence.

In Brazil the 106th anniversary of the birth of General Manuel Fonseca, the first president of the republic, is being commemorated.

Ten years ago today the last increment of the National guard was drafted into the service of the United States for the war with Germany.

Dr. Henry B. Dewing sailed from New York today to take up his duties as first president of Athens college, the new American college in Greece.

The Prince of Wales, Prince George, Premier Stanley Baldwin and their party are cruising through the Thousand Islands today enroute to Toronto.

The nineteenth congress of Esperanto, in session at Danzig, ended today with a pilgrimage of the delegates to Warsaw to the tomb of Dr. Zamenhof, the author of the universal language.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Aug. 5.—Thoughts while strolling: Stationery store offers "Paper cloths for back yard cats." Art Young, [illegible]. Why do street-sweepers wear mustaches? Those embarrassed men airing [illegible]. Theatrical troupers hopefully awaiting the first winter calls.

The private dwelling restaurants designated as "French." Pull door bells. Dim with red plush furniture, lump pits [illegible] and basement dining-rooms. The ladies [illegible] as Michael Strange. With her air of reserve. Crowds looking down a cross-town at a four funnelled steamer outward bound.

Nothing sounds more pathetic than a yearling calf in a crate. Or as trifling as the [illegible] clatter in a bowling alley. A blind [illegible] player. The slim-legged girls with [illegible] shingled hair and slinkity walks. As against theatrical ticket agency clerks. Gene Tunney talking to Al Woods.

Tenement children cooling off in [illegible] movie lobbies. Lew Fields's son [illegible] a shrewd showman. The theater building [illegible] seems over. A coatless street singer with [illegible] suspenders. Tall-brush muriats in the [illegible] vation buses hopefully waiting to go.

Starry eyed couples drifting toward park benches. A noted violinist listening to a [illegible] hawker. Who is selling chamois [illegible] plexion masks for ladies. Funny how [illegible] us like to chat with policemen. A [illegible] cigaret roller with dandyandy [illegible] [illegible].

Pallid women who sell birth control [illegible]. And sheepish customers who buy [illegible] away like birds. Huge live turtles in [illegible] a seafood cafe. The painted girls in [illegible] frocks around the entrances of shady [illegible].

Farriers showing large muffs. Frank [illegible] eatery sign: "Our food is for he-men [illegible] classes." In our town we spelled it with [illegible] initial "s." Hokey pokey ice-cream now [illegible] cents a cake. Used to be a penny. And there is a sidewalk card writer.

Variety, the theatrical paper, has listed more than 100 rather celebrated artists of the stage, screen and vaudeville, who have recently made an effort to "come back" to a certain measure of former popularity. Not one achieved the desire. Many, however, were enthusiastically received, but it proved to be merely a spontaneous ovation and the box-office pull was lacking. Once an artist drops out, it seems better to stage a comeback in an entirely new field. Amusement lovers are seeking the new and they have a feeling that there was something wrong with the old-timer or they would not have lost favor. Perhaps they are right.

In the Bowery lodging-houses are many drifters known as "Come to Glory" men. For a livelihood they have drifted around the country on the heels of revivals, receiving one dollar nightly and board for being among the first to lead the rush to the mourners' bench when the call came.

Frank Ward O'Malley, who deserted Park row for higher literature, has returned from a two-years self exile in France and overseas land. He will spend most of his time at his country estate at Brielle, New Jersey. O'Malley is perhaps the most famous of New York reporters, although he never signed a story in the old Sun. People knew his work. O'Malley gave the turbulent section of the Tenderloin the name of "Roaring Forties"—derived, of course, from the olden days of marking tent of a clipper ship's ability to stand the wind and wave in those degrees of latitude.

Twenty Years Ago.

This day was Monday.

C. M. Beckett, who was elected principal of the high school and failed to pass the examination prepared by the local board of school examiners composed of J. W. Jacoby, John H. Clark and T. C. Bowen, appealed his case to the state school commissioner, who notified the local board to send in its questions and Beckett's answers.

Robert W. Pierson sued the C. D. and M. for being put off one of its cars when he tendered the conductor a transfer which the latter declared worthless. Pierson claimed that if the conductor on the car from whom he secured the transfer had punched it wrong it was no fault of his.

The monthly financial statement of the county auditor reported $350,023.22 in the treasury.

The holdings of John T. Monnette and E. E. Monnette in the Golden Calf mine near Redding, California, were reported to have become quite valuable.

Miss Sara Graeney, of Marion, and Mr. Franz J. Feisinger, of Dayton, were married at St. Mary's church by Rev. Father Joseph Denning.

The Star reported the very sudden death the day before, of Henry E. Lober, from [illegible] of heart disease, at his home on West Columbia street.

Lieutenant Peary was preparing for another attempt to reach the North pole.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Strayer residing south of Marion; a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Firstenberger, residing on the Delaware pike, and a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. James G. Raiston, of Columbia [illegible].

The parents of Mr. and Mrs. Frank [illegible] received word of her death in Los Angeles.

Peter Johnson, sixty-one, died suddenly at a Prospect store, after being arrested by [illegible] son-in-law, Marshal Lauer, of Prospect, [illegible] fighting.

Miss Emma Augenstine and Mr. [illegible] Cramer, both of Waldo, were married at the home of the bride's grandfather near [illegible].

The policemen and firemen were given increases of five dollars a month, making the [illegible] pay $50 the first year; $60, the second year and $65, the third year. The increase for [illegible] was made $72.50 and the chiefs', $80 a month.

Dinner Stories.

"The world is round, isn't it?"

"Right-o."

"Then if I wanted to go east I could eventually get there by going west."

"What are you, a taxi driver?"

"Im sorry to hear your engagement was broken off."

"Yes, Charlie acted horribly."

"But I thought you broke it off yourself."

"Oh, yes; but he made no fuss about it."

The following was the verdict [illegible] jury in a suit against a railroad company:

"If the train had run as it should have done, if the bell had rung as it should have rung, if the whistle had blowed as it should have blowed, both of which it did neither—the deceased would not have been injured when he was killed."

"Pardon me, but you look like [illegible]."

"Is that so? Well, I look worse than I [illegible]."

Two Irish women were discussing a recent accident. One asked the other if any one was killed in the terrible crash. "Shure, twinty-siven Oildians and wan Frinchman," whereupon Mrs. Dooley, with a long face, came back with: "Oh, the pore feller."

FOR LESS CARBON

Use both SHELL Gasoline and Motor Oil

Golden Clear Shell Motor Oil

A fitting companion to Shell Gasoline. Its golden clear color indicates care in refining and freedom from excess carbon. It is obtained from specially selected crude oils that are rich in natural lubricating qualities and is refined at a low temperature which preserves these qualities intact ' ' ' Under all operating conditions Shell Motor Oil provides an effective cushion of protection against friction and wear and seals the cylinders so that the full force of compression is converted into speed and power.

400 "Extra Dry" Shell Gasoline

Its outstanding superiority is due to a revolutionary change in the process of refining ' ' ' reducing the "end point" to 400° ' ' ' taking only the most volatile parts ' ' ' producing LESS but much FINER gasoline from the crude. As a result, Shell Gasoline is EXTRA DRY ' ' ' unusually free from heavy greasy, carbon-bearing elements. It vaporizes completely, ignites instantly, burns cleanly, leaving no unburned residue to dilute the oil in the crankcase. It is a quality product ' ' ' alive with power ' ' ' more expensive to produce but costs you no more than the ordinary kind.

The sensible way to deal with carbon is to correct the probable source of the condition ' ' ' unsuitable gasoline and motor oil. If the gasoline you use contains "heavy ends" (greasy particles that seep past the piston unburned and dilute the crankcase oil) carbon is bound to form. If the motor oil lacks natural lubricating qualities and contains excess carbon, it will inevitably deposit excess carbon under engine heat.

By the exclusive use of Shell 400 "Extra Dry" Gasoline and Golden Clear Shell Motor Oil you can practically eliminate carbon troubles. Shell Gasoline is refined to 400° end point and is extra dry, free from slow-burning elements which dilute the crankcase oil. Shell Motor Oil is golden clear ' ' ' contains almost no carbon and accordingly deposits almost none.

However, to use Shell Gasoline alone is not enough ' ' ' incorrect motor oil will dissipate its extra power. To use Shell Motor Oil alone is not enough ' ' ' poor gasoline will quickly dilute it and break down its lubricating abilities.

But the anti-carbon combination ' ' ' Shell Gasoline and Shell Motor Oil ' ' ' were made to go together ' ' ' to work together in perfect harmony. Used together they bring out the best in your car and always deliver the utmost in speed, power and silent smoothness.

Why take chances with your car? Why run the risk of trouble, damage, repair bills and untimely depreciation ' ' when the anti-carbon combination ' ' ' 400 "Extra Dry" Shell Gasoline and Golden Clear Shell Motor Oil ' ' ' are so conveniently available at Shell Yellow-Red Service Stations and Shell dealers everywhere?

MURSE RELIEVES STUBBORN BED SORES WITHIN 24 HOURS

Simple treatment can be used by anyone

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 28th—"I am a practical nurse and have been taking care of a patient—an elderly lady, 72, confined to her bed by paralysis. She had been obliged to lie on her back for months and a bed sore developed—the worst I have ever seen. The skin was broken and inflamed and an ugly secretion came from it. I applied Resinol Ointment and in twenty-four hours noticed improvement. After one month's use the sore was practically healed. Hoping this letter may help someone else, I am, gratefully yours."—(Signed) E. S Caldwell, 4122 Chester Avenue

Resinol Ointment has many other uses. As a soothing dressing for chafing, burns, rashes, etc., it is in thousands of homes. Your druggist sells it.

SHE WENT FROM BAD TO WORSE

Down to 98 Pounds—Finally Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cleveland, Ohio.—"After having my first baby, I lost weight no matter what I did. Then a doctor told me I would be better if I had another baby, which I did. But I got worse, was always sickly and went down to 98 pounds. My neighbor told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it helped her very much, so I tried it. After taking four bottles, I weigh 118 pounds. It has just done wonders for me and I can do my housework now without one bit of trouble."—Mrs. M. Rissinger, 10004 Nelson Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

If some good fairy should appear, and offer to grant your heart's desire, what would you choose? Wealth? Happiness?

Health? That's the best gift. Health is riches that gold cannot buy and surely health is cause enough for happiness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be the good fairy who offers you better health.

I am afraid that you are mistaking me for some one else. I am Miss Cameron.

Begin Here Today

VERA CAMERON, a plain business girl realizes suddenly her need to be beautiful when she sees and falls instantly in love with a man who ignores her. She hears him called Schuyler and that he will be at Lake Minnetonka in June.

Vera is secretary to JERRY MACKLYN, advertising manager for the Peach Bloom Cosmetic Co. He proposes to change her into a beauty with the aid of the company cosmetics and to use her pictures in the company's advertising. Vera at first refuses but reconsiders and tells herself she will undergo anything to be beautiful by June.

After the transformation Vera is amazingly beautiful and astounds her aunt with whom she lives, FLORA CARTWRIGHT.

Just before Vera leaves for her vacation she begs Jerry not to use her pictures in the advertising, and he tells her he will take them only if she will give up her trip. She refuses. He begs her again and confesses his love. When she tells him she can not give up the trip he gives her an envelope which she is to open only at the hour hers if not a man. Riding from the station to the hotel in the bus Vera is made uncomfortable by a couple who whisper significantly about her as if they recognize her. This same couple tells the hotel clerk something which causes him to become instantly deferential to Vera. A maid tells Vera she is lovelier than her pictures and hints she is in hiding. Vera suddenly remembers the picture Jerry used in having her refashioned and supposes it was of some prominent society girl and that she is now being mistaken for her. However she forgets everything when she steps into the dining room and finds herself looking into the dark eyes of Schuyler the man she has come to Minnetonka to see.

Now go on with the story.

CHAPTER XIV

VEE VEE CAMERON'S cool green eyes and her unsmiling lips gave no hint of the fact that her heart was pounding with excitement. Her glance lingered for only the most fleeting instant upon the man she knew only as Schuyler, shifted to the big tanned athletic young girl who sat at the small table for two opposite him then swept with apparent unconcern the remaining tables of the near-by dining room as if she were sizing up her fellow guests with impersonal and casual interest. She was full aware the dining room contained but one male and her feminine pride would not falter.

A smile for one must mean all. She spoke naked notes for as he stepped before a small table in the end recess of the window overlooking the lake.

Vee Vee answered. I am afraid you are mistaking me for some one else. I am Miss Cameron.

Vera's eyes raced down the long table d'hote menu. Hunger had been completely routed by excitement by the thrill of a pair of dark eyes looking into hers with startled glad surprise.

I'm not hungry, Vera murmured. Just bring me a grilled sweetbread with mushroom sauce, new asparagus with drawn butter, toast melba and a pot of orange pekoe tea with lemon.

Very good, madame, said the captain bowed. You will order dessert later.

No dessert, thank you, Vera answered. I wishing that he would go away so that she could think or rather that she could give herself over to the ecstatic realization that her quest was at an end. She had found Schuyler and he had looked at her as if he had been seeking her all his life—

But who was the girl who sat at the table with him? Her greatest dread has been that she would find him only to learn that he was already married. She allowed her eyes to rove over the dining room.

The big tanned girl dressed in a shapeless unmoded tennis frock of yellow silk that made her complexion look much worse than it was was leaning across Schuyler talking rapidly and earnestly.

As she was taking in these details self-conscious fearfully the man raised his head quickly as if it had been jerked upward by the power of her glance upon him. Before she could wrench her eyes away Schuyler was smiling at her in no hint of the fact that her heart was the quick eager smile of a person who wishes to remind you that he knows you—or at least has met you. Vera's face flushed for an instant as sparkling into an answering smile she dropped her eyes to her empty plate, kept them there as if she were interested in the gaudy pattern of red and green flowers.

I beg your pardon? The low, hard tone voice which she remembered as well even though it was no longer weary and bored as it had been in the elevator that memorable day when she had first heard it broke in upon her confusion. Incensed it unmeasurably. She had feared someone approaching had thought to win the waiter—

She looked up her green eyes widening with surprise then narrowing to bright slits. Schuyler was bending over her smiling with depreciating ease. Those which wavered to uncertainty as she refused to recognize him.

Don't you remember me, he went on urgently, in a low voice. I met you five years ago at Palm Beach.

I am afraid Vera interrupted him coolly unsmilingly that you are mistaking me for someone else. I am Miss Cameron.

I—I'm sorry. I beg your pardon. It is an extraordinary resemblance—May I introduce myself, unless that will add to the offense—

I am not offended, Vee Vee smiled slightly frigidly.

I am Schuyler Smythe of New York. May I say that I hope you will enjoy Minnetonka. I have found it to be the perfect escape from a New York summer.

Vee Vee beckoned to the waiter, who was hovering in the background with a loaded tray. Schuyler bowed again, bowed formally in the continental fashion and turned to walk rapidly toward the table where his companion was awaiting him scowling angrily at her plate.

As Vee Vee tried to eat she cast an occasional glance toward the table whose occupants interested her so keenly. She could not analyze the impulse which had prompted her to be so frosty at her first interview with the man whom she had gone to such trouble and expense to meet. She had certainly felt far from indifference as she had been ever so conscious of Schuyler's every movement. She had been undoubtedly rude in passing by the advances that she had [illegible] stakes [illegible] liberally endowed [illegible] with particular [illegible] time to talk [illegible]

[illegible] with what he [illegible] Vee Vee groaned. [illegible] in the world and I [illegible] double for some [illegible] known—a person [illegible] to the [illegible] papers, who wants [illegible]

Her guarded [illegible] into as she cast a [illegible] her smile and [illegible] quite evident that [illegible] with him. She [illegible] of a girl who [illegible] veal her own [illegible] had lost weight. [illegible] saving that he [illegible] was feeling a result of [illegible] Her big flannel [illegible] as she [illegible] ant as she [illegible] awkward emptiness [illegible] big brown hands. Schuyler Smythe Vee Vee noted was replacing his [illegible] to concentrate his attention upon his companion. Instinctively Vee Vee [illegible] whimsical terror mingled in [illegible] some face.

As if he were a [illegible] Vee Vee thought angrily. What I was going through and all [illegible] and I [illegible] through me and I was [illegible] after I got and spent me [illegible] make myself attractive [illegible] ing obvious, not to a girl [illegible] by no stretch of the [illegible] called even possible [illegible] that last [illegible] to see [illegible] ple of it.

She had not quite [illegible] her simple luncheon when Schuyler at the girl companion left the [illegible] dropped her napkin [illegible] the door and [illegible] dressing.

In her inexperience [illegible] plainness at the [illegible] She had [illegible] quite simple that the guests would be informally [illegible] listed no fancy waists [illegible] summer resort but [illegible] how she was going [illegible] just [illegible] of her precious [illegible] south that she had [illegible]

Oh pardon me Miss [illegible] a blithely cheerful [illegible] her.

She turned to [illegible] with whom she had [illegible] the woman who had [illegible] about her [illegible]

Yes? Vera smiled [illegible]

My husband and I [illegible] that we were alone and I [illegible] said to him [illegible] and I am going to introduce myself to Miss [illegible] Cameron. She looks lonely and I [illegible] woman about [illegible] well dressed and pleasantly pretty spoke in an eager rush of words as if she were amazed at her own daring in speaking to Vera Cameron.

That is very kind of you, Vee Vee said gratefully.

Oh I forgot to tell you my name. I'm Mrs. Bannister—Mrs. John Adalee Bannister of [illegible] Garden, though you might say we live in New York being [illegible] Park Square. My husband John Blair Bannister is a broker and [illegible] Stocks is a hobby [illegible] the world but [illegible] of fun.

Mrs. Bannister's eager voice ran on but Vee Vee was not listening. Schuyler Smythe and Miss Penfield—Mr. and I have a strong suspicion that it's more engaged!

Of course! Vee Vee murmured absently. I'm very glad to know you.

Oh I just had to come [illegible] myself. Mrs. Bannister gurgled. We're all so thrilled to have you here, even if you are traveling incognito. All right, John, I'm coming. My husband [illegible] Miss Cameron. John and I were talking to that [illegible] I beg your pardon, Miss Cameron, I [illegible] Miss—
